Kevin Plager (Husband) appeals from the trial court's judgment dissolving his marriage to Tiffany Plager. On appeal, Husband raises several points challenging the distribution of marital property and debts, the child support award, and the retroactive child support award.

REVERSED AND REMANDED.

Division Five Holds: The trial court erred in calculating the child support award and associated retroactive child support award, because it improperly calculated Husband's self-employment income. In all other respects, the trial court did not err.
